No Disposition Yet.

The remains of John Kreutzer, who was killed on the Baltimore & Ohio in upper Benwood Saturday night, are still at Schneider's undertaking establishment. The deceased had no relatives in this country as reported, but leaves a wife and three children in Austria. He had two friends in Benwood who are trying to collect the expenses of his interment, and if they don't succeed by Wednesday the county will inter the body.

An old Wheeling Boy.

Among the advertisements in a publication showing forth the Alaska gold fields, and routes of the Klondike, is one by John P. Sharkey, an old island boy, now conducting a saddlery store at Portland, Ore. Accompanying the "ad." is a cut of his store and John's form is readily recognized by his Wheeling friends. The cut shows a wagon loaded with pack saddles leaving for the Klondike. John formerly carried papers for the Intelligencer, and is now reaping a harvest owing to the gold craze.

Services at Mt. Calvary.

To-day is All Soul's day in the Catholic church. Services on this day will be held in the chapel of Mt. Calvary cemetery. A mass for the dead will be celebrated as soon as the 8 o'clock motor arrives at the graveyard. After the mass a sermon will be preached by Rev. Father Paquin, of Elm Grove. The Mt. Rev. Bishop will be present. A large number of people attend the mass at the graveyard every year, it being the commemoration of all souls. Those who wish to attend this beautiful yet simple service for the dead can take the 8 o'clock motor and will be in ample time.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY

PUT IN JAIL.

Mike O'Malley, a Bartender Declines to Answer

QUESTIONS BEFORE GRAND JURY

And Judge Hugus Sends Him to Jail Until his Memory is Refreshed—The Grand Jury Examined a Large Number of Witnesses Yesterday and its Labors will not be Completed Until To-day—Possible Later.

The criminal court grand jury was formed yesterday morning and was soon busily at work. The feature of the day was the incarceration of a witness, Mike O'Malley, the bar-tender at James Arthur's saloon, who couldn't remember whether or not he had sold beer on a certain date recalled to his memory while he was being questioned in the grand jury room. This incident occurred about 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

The sheriff was called and took O'Malley to the criminal court room. The grand jury followed, and Foreman John Waterhouse informed the court of the circumstances. Thereupon, Judge Hugus gave his ruling, which was that O'Malley be taken to the county jail and confined until he could refresh his memory. He was released from custody two hours later, having refreshed his memory to the point desired by the grand jury.

At the same time, Foreman Waterhouse asked the court as to the course of action to be taken by the grand jury in bringing in indictments against the owners of property in which liquor had been illegally sold. Judge Hugus stated that the state law providing for the indictment of property owners was intended to apply only to counties where there is no licensed sale of liquor, such as Tyler and other counties, where the law works against the roving peddlers of intoxicants, which are here one day and miles away the next day. Concluding, the judge told the grand jury that he could not see any reason for indicting property owners in this county.

Foreman Waterhouse next asked the court as to bringing in indictments for offenses for which the saloonists had been indicted by the last criminal court grand jury. The court replied that it could not see how these violations could be determined. This was a matter, in fact, that did not concern the grand jury.

At 5:30 o'clock last evening the grand jury was adjourned until this morning at 9:30 o'clock. During the day a large number of witnesses were examined, and from their character it can be seen that the jury is going into violations of liquor cases on an extensive scale. It is not anticipated that the grand jury will report to the court before late this afternoon, and probably not until to-morrow.

Among other witnesses called was Tom Duffy, one of the men implicated in the fight at Gilchrist's mines, above town, Sunday night. The grand jury is evidently making an investigation of the trouble there.

The grand jury is composed of the following citizens: John Waterhouse, foreman; John Frew, John Bodley, Phillip Emerick, Joseph Hydtner, A. C. Harrell, A. M. Stevenson, Louis Wheeler, Louis Heller, J. A. Britt, C. B. Stenzel, W. G. Claytor, B. F. Perkins, George Zeigler, Charles Killmeyer and William Waddle.

In Clerk Robertson's Office.

Yesterday in Clerk Robertson's office marriage licenses were issued to Jason Vandine, aged thirty-one years, and Lizzie Craswell, aged twenty-five years; and William Patterson, aged twenty-eight years, and Mary Davis, aged eighteen years.

The following transfers of real estate were recorded:

Deed made November 1, 1897; by J. E. McVenus to John Cox; consideration $150; transfers lot 23 in Zane's orchard addition, Island.

Deed made October 22, 1897; by J. P. Rogers, trustee, to Lena L. Maurer; consideration $500; transfers lot 6 in Joseph Caldwell's addition, Wheeling.

The Kicker's Reply.

THE HUB—CLOTHIERS AND FURNISHERS.

An Eye Opener.

Suppose we should say $12.50 or $15.00 for one of the hundreds of Suits or Overcoats we are offering at $10.00, nobody would think uncommon of it. We have had hundreds of callers within the last week or so, prompted by mere curiosity. They told us so. They never dreamed that such a showing could be made. Ten dollars for Suits and Overcoats that some of them were candid to tell us were as good as their tailor could make them for $20.00 and $25.00. They owned up that they hadn't seen the like in any other store in town for less than $15.00, and they are not to be found. The more critical you are the stronger their light of superiority shines out, even down to the minutest point. They are tailored in a fashion that would do credit to any priced garments. Such fabrics and such patterns were never known to do duty at such a moderate cost before. Tailors say that ready-made clothes don't fit. We'll leave it to our $10.00 if they don't, and not passable well, BUT PERFECTLY. Good judgment never overpays. Don't let prejudice tug your purse strings wider open than need be for your satisfaction. On some occasions you need the finest clothes that money can buy. We've got them, but at business and about town these $10.00 Suits and Overcoats of ours are just what you want. When it's so plain to save, it's wasteful not to. You'd be the first to caution anybody against extravagance. How about practicing that preaching? Here's the time and opportunity. Bear in mind you buy with our guarantee. Your money back if not satisfied.

BUSINESS MEN—BAER'S.

...Business Men...

Know the value of a man being well dressed—not foppishly dressed. We call your attention, just now, to two special lines of . . .

..MEN'S WINTER SUITS..

That will appeal to the business man. They are finished in a manner that gives them "style and character" without being "loud or dudeish." One is a line of Fine Worsted Men's Suits in neat checks and indistinct brown plaid effects and plain blue and black rough Cheviots, $12.50 which we are offering at . . . $15 would not be too much to ask for these suits.

The other is a line of Fancy Cheviot Suits—cut on the same outlines as our finest suits—of durable, all wool fabrics—well made and trimmed—perfect fit assured—which we have marked at the low price $10.00 of . . . $12 to $13 is the prices usually asked for this grade of suits.
